

01 THE PROBLEM

Your staff isn't refusing AI.

They're just being told to use tools that aren't designed for them.

02 THE FIX

So we put it in a form they already know.

No login, no training, and no new habits to learn. They email Gofer like they would an intern.

Work that used to take a script, a vendor, or a temp.

Gofer understands what you need. It learns as you use it and gets better at its job, but never asks for a promotion.

03 WHY ME

I've built gofers my whole career.

INBOX Fwd: This week's job tickets

DR Dana Ruiz

7:41 AM

All four crews, week of the 10th. Payroll sheet the usual way, and keep Rialto separate from Fontana. Fair warning, a few are a mess.

31 photos, 4 crews

G Gofer

7:52 AM

PLAN

- One row per person per day, your columns
- Job number off the header, so Rialto and Fontana stay split
- Overtime past 40 in its own column, like February

ASSUMING Saturday is straight time unless the ticket says so.
QUESTION Two are illegible, Alvarez Tuesday and Kim Thursday. Flag them, or hold the sheet?

DR Dana Ruiz

8:03 AM

Flag them. Yes on Saturday.

G Gofer

8:14 AM

Done. 31 tickets in, 2 flagged.

Payroll_week_of_Mar_10.xlsx

8:09 Totaled hours by person and job
8:14 Matched your payroll columns. Filed

Twelve years as an engineer on RF and space hardware. Every job I had, I wrote scripts to take the grunt work off my plate. Gofer only wants to do the grunt work and fits into how people already work.

This doesn't replace your best people. It gives them a smart, personal intern so they can do more of what makes them great.

Peter Cho Founder, Gofer

